

Teacher Letters of Rec

The Teacher LOR is different than the Counselor LOR.

Teachers focus on:

- The student's experience with the curriculum, in your class, or linking class content to hobbies/internships/jobs.
- The student's academic or intellectual skills, growth, or improvement, in your class.
- The student's engagement in your class.
- Use personal, specific examples, details, insights, and/or observations.
- College admissions professionals from various types of institutions, the consistent request is to keep letters to 1-page, unless the student's story &/or accomplishments merit more than 1-page.

Teacher LOR Organized Narrative Format:

- "How To" Template: provides a description of each section of the letter, additional section header options, & tips/suggestions
- A list of LOR adjectives/vocabulary and "Finish these Prompts" suggestions.
- Sample Teacher Letters: Please note that it is highly recommended that letters be no longer than 1-page (some samples are longer than that).
- What are College Reps saying about organized narrative style letters?
 - College Reps Testimonials (From 2016 Rep phone calls)

Tips on the Process:

- Gather information via a Student Questionnaire or via meeting with the student
- Collaborate! Consider talking with a departmental colleague who previously taught the student to determine if there has been growth/improvement
- Feel free to visit with the CC Team to seek advice or to proof letters
- Find a way to record valuable moments (start a running google doc for letters and/or report card comments.
- Great College blogs about Teacher LORs
 - Tips from the Admissions team at Tulane U
 - Tips from the Hopkins Admissions Team
 - Carleton Admissions Team
 - Harvard's Making Caring Common Project